

INTRODUCTION

Robert Gescheit became accredited in 2011 as a Commercial Arbitrator with the Institute of Arbitrators and Mediators Australia (IAMA), having completed the post-graduate course in Arbitration at the University of Adelaide.

With experience in international and domestic arbitrations and mediations, Robert has built a reputation in the world arena as a specialist in resolving international commercial disputes notwithstanding his involvement in domestic matters in Australia.

In 2011, Robert also attained National Accreditation as a mediator under the National Mediator Accreditation System, and is a Member of IAMA, name recently changed to 'Resolution Institute'.

In June 2017, Robert was awarded the Medal of the Order of Australia (OAM) for his services to the community of Eastern Sydney.

BACKGROUND

Robert's experience over 40 years is predominantly in the field of real estate agency practice, property management and sales, property development & construction, and community project management and marketing. He retains a Real Estate Licence, and is a Justice of the Peace in New South Wales.

Since selling his Real Estate business in 1995, Robert has been involved in many small to medium-size property development projects, and has also taken on various professional and voluntary roles within community organisations in New South Wales. He has been a Property and Business Consultant for over 20 years, and is well recognised in this field.

EXPERTISE

Robert's strengths are in property and business matters, and related areas of dispute resolution. He is able to take an objective view of a situation which requires facilitation, assessment and/or resolution. He has the skills and experience necessary to develop solution-based results.

A CHANGE OF FOCUS

After running his own businesses and managing others for many years, Robert is focusing his attention on Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR), and in particular through the methods of Mediation and Arbitration. Robert believes that he is able to contribute greatly in a wide variety of areas, and through his expertise and vast experience be able to provide an impartial and efficient form of dispute resolution.

RECOGNITION

In 2015, Robert received the Government of New South Wales 'Community Service Award' in acknowledgment for his "outstanding contribution to the community".

In June 2017, Robert received the award of OAM in the Queen's Birthday Honours List.

A PERSONAL NOTE

Robert is married with three married children. He has six grandchildren who he proudly boasts are his greatest joy. He often says that his major achievements pale into insignificance when it comes to the delight he receives from his grandchildren.

Travelling the world together with his wife of 40 years is also a passion, and he has been able to combine his zest for adventure with the enthusiasm he has for the intricate art of mediation and arbitration especially in areas of international commercial disputes.

Robert will go 'anywhere' in the world where his services are needed to resolve disputes, in his inimitable style and enthusiasm.
